

MORSE HOME AGAIN CHIPPER AND BROWN

Returns in Apparent Good Health and Says He Has No Present Business Plans.

SAYS HE'LL LIVE SOME TIME

Is Able to Walk Freely and Is Glad That the Bath, Me., Folks Will Welcome Him.

Charles W. Morse, the former banker and ice king, who was wheeled aboard the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria three months ago after a severe physical wreck, with a few more months of life before him stepped off the White Star liner Olympic, yesterday from Southampton, unassisted and apparently in good health. With Morse came his wife, Mrs. Morse, three sons and two daughters, and there was a happy reunion. Morse was dressed in a blue serge suit, a spring overcoat and a derby hat. Both were in high spirits after their trip abroad. Morse met the reporters after lunch in one of the forward reception rooms and allowed himself to be interviewed and photographed.

"I'm very much improved in health," he smiled. "I haven't been paying any attention to business, but have been attending to my health entirely. We traveled in Italy and Germany and I spent a month with good results in Wiesbaden."

"What have your physicians to say concerning your condition at present?" he was asked.

"My doctors tell me," replied Morse, "that if I am careful and take care of myself I shall be able to live a long time yet. The last analysis of my condition made by specialists abroad showed that I have held my own very well and that I may live for some time. I'll live as long as I can. If I take care of myself and don't have any setbacks or overstrain myself I may live a long time yet, and I'm going to follow the doctors' advice on these matters."

"When I left for Europe I couldn't walk across the room unassisted, but now I can get around without the use of even a cane. On the voyage back I walked about a great deal on deck."

Morse was asked concerning the rumor that he will form a new Hudson River navigation line.

"That's news to me," he said, smiling. "I haven't made any plans for the future."

He denied that he intended to start a competing line on the Hudson, and when asked about a cablegram saying that he had inspected a line on the Hudson with an eye to buying it he said he hadn't been in Bremen at all.

Morse seemed to be much touched when he was told by the reporters that the people of his home town, Bath, Me., have been preparing a rousing reception for his expected homecoming.

"I'm glad of that," he said. "I'd like to see the old town and people again."

When he was asked if he thought he'd prosper the financial field he said he didn't know if it all depends on his health. He said he was not worrying about business at present. However, Mrs. Morse went to their town house, 12 West Fifty-eighth street, where they will stay for a while.

The Morises were booked on the Olympic under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Morris. This he explained by saying that passage on the liner had been booked by telephone from Paris and the name had sounded like Morris over the telephone. When he saw the spelling on the passenger list he didn't see the reason why he should raise a row over the matter.

Mrs. Morse seemed in good spirits and said she thought that her husband had been greatly benefited by his trip, but she didn't consider him as recovered from his illness. She said they had no definite plans for the future, but thought that it would be hard to keep Mr. Morse from traveling.

Morse sailed for Europe on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria for the Mediterranean on February 14 of this year. The utmost severity was maintained as to his movements from the time he left his home in Bath, Me., until he was released from the federal prison in Atlanta after serving two years of fifteen years until he was released to his stateroom on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria. On the ship he and Mrs. Morse were listed as Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Campbell. Mrs. Morse told reporters at the time who tried to talk with Morse that her husband was too ill to talk to any one.

Morse's term in the Atlanta prison was commuted by President Taft to begin on July 1st of last February. The sentence was commuted after Brig. Gen. George J. Terry, chief of the bureau of surgery and medicine, U. S. A., had reported that if kept in confinement Morse couldn't live more than six months longer. He had served two years of his term when sentence was commuted.

From time to time while he was abroad Morse's reports concerning his health came to this country. One of these reports emanating from Florence said that while suffering from Bright's disease, diabetes, and other ailments, Mr. Morse had picked up twenty pounds in weight in forty-two days.
